

New Year in the Swedish mountains

6 days / 5 nights

28th December 2011 to 2nd January 2012

Do something really special to celebrate the New Year of 2011. The ultimate nature experience in the western mountains of Jämtland. With four days of dog sledding, you learn how to harness the dogs and drive a dog sled and get to know their unique personalities. A taste of thrilling adventure for anyone who wants a real wilderness feeling. When the New Year arrives you will be far out in the magical white mountains. With small groups and personal service we give you the holiday you been looking for!!

28th December Arrival day

Arrival and check in at the Husky lodge located at the husky kennels. We say 'Hi' to the dogs and have a tour around the kennel. We take a look at the equipment and after a nice dinner together we talk about the week to come. Your first night you spend at the Husky lodge. We have two nice twin/double rooms: Thule & Toolik, both good standard with comfortable beds, private TV room & WC.

29th December Training day

After breakfast we will have a training day at the kennel. You learn about the dogs, how to harness and take care of them during tour. How to put out the stakeout for the night parking and how to dig a shelter for the dogs. The takeoff with a dog team can be a bit tricky, so we will try that behind a scooter and then with a real team of course! After we have tried the sleds & gone through the technique you will feel real safe when its time to go tomorrow.

30th December Dog sledding

Early morning we pack the car and set of to the mountains. Its time to go with the dogs, and they will take you through breathtaking scenery among the magnificent mountains and wilderness of Sweden.... let the adventure begin! You will see the most beautiful colours in this cold winter climate and if we are lucky, the northern lights! When its time to set camp, the whole group helps out and above all - take care of the dogs. Together we make dinner, some of us cook and some are melting snow for us and the dogs. We spend the night in a nice mountain hut.

New Year's Eve! Dog Sledding

We wake up to the first morning in the mountains, perhaps we are the only ones in this area. It's a nice feeling and totally quiet. After the dogs and ourselves have had breakfast, we are on our way again. Today you should have a good feeling about mushing and be able to master the sled. Sometimes it's hard work for us and the dogs, but when we see the awesome views around us we are getting paid back. We take care of the dogs and then make a really nice dinner and have some champagne to see in 2012. We spend the night in a nice mountain hut.

New Year's Day Dog Sledding

After feeding the dogs and ourselves, we put on some snow shoes to check out the area. Hopefully, it's a nice morning and when we stop for a rest we can take the chance to sit down and soak in the beautiful view and listen to the silence. The weather can change fast in the mountains... from blue sky & sun to storm & blizzard. Especially hard wind takes much energy from the dogs and people. At the end of the day, we bid our farewell to the mountains and we drive back to the Husky lodge. After a shower and our last dinner together we can take a look at the photos we have taken and relive our adventure.
